

D8-1104: The Great Space Escape

They say that D8-1104 is the most secure prison in the Galaxy. Orbiting a brown dwarf in a backwater corner of the Perseus Arm, the facility is home to murderers, thieves, political prisoners... and some who were unlucky enough to piss off the wrong powerful galactic citizen. Its one port is tightly monitored and its cell blocks patrolled by guards armed to the teeth. They say no one has ever escaped. They say it's impossible. They also say a resupply ship is coming to dock in a week. For a small group of prisoners with a very special set of skills, impossible means nothing - and the resupply ship is their chance to make history.

HERO is a political prisoner who arrived on the facility nearly a year ago.

VILLAIN has lived on the facility for nearly ten years. Rumor is their crime was especially grisly - but they've never told anyone what it was.

SIDEKICK is a thief who was caught two years ago trying to steal from a high-ranking Imperial official.

MACGUFFIN is the supply ship. The keys to the ship are located in the Warden's office.

ACQUISITION: The character gets to the office and takes the keys.

ACTIVATION: The character successfully sneaks aboard the ship, with or without the other characters, and escapes from the prison.

DESTRUCTION: The character commandeers the ship at gunpoint, with or without the other characters, and flies off into hyperspace – followed closely by interplanetary police.
